

Dr. Jennifer Caudle, D.O., is a board-certified Family Medicine physician. She is currently an Assistant Professor in the department of Family Medicine at Rowan University-School of Osteopathic Medicine.

Prior to this, Dr. Caudle was a faculty member in the Johns Hopkins University / Sinai Hospital Residency Program in Internal Medicine in Baltimore, MD, and an Instructor of Medicine at the Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine.

Dr. Caudle graduated with Honors from Princeton University and earned her medical degree from UMDNJ - School of Osteopathic Medicine.

She has served as an on-air health expert for local and national news networks including CNN, The Dr. Oz Show, Fox29 News Philadelphia, CBS Philly 3 News, The Tom Joyner Morning Show and many others.

She has also written numerous health articles for local and national magazines including The Daily Beast, CNN.com and abcNEWS.com. Dr. Jen is the creator of The Physicians Blog and she is also a spokesperson for the American Osteopathic Association.

Dr. Caudle presents workshops on health & wellness, bullying and motivation to organizations and individuals. She has spoken to over 50,000 audience members at hundreds of venues throughout the country and her programs have been featured in various magazines and television broadcasts.

Dr. Caudle is also a cellist, and as a musician she has performed Cello in orchestras and string ensembles internationally. She attended Walnut Hill School for the Arts and studied Cello at the New England Conservatory of Music Preparatory School during her high school years. Dr. Caudle is now on the Board of Trustees of Walnut Hill School for the Arts.

Her professional experiences also include working at MTV Networks in New York City. In 1999, Dr. Caudle earned the title of Miss Iowa and competed in the 1999 Miss America Pageant

Dr. Caudle currently practices Family Medicine at RowanSOM University Doctors, in New Jersey.

Represented by Laurie Jacoby 310.385.8221 / jacoby1@tvtalent.com